Common Name	Pacific Fire Vine Maple
Botanical Name	Acer circinatum 'Pacific Fire'

Form and Flower	Small multi trunk tree, like the species but more upright with spreading side limbs derived from the lower trunk. Perhaps one of the best new introductions to our native vine maple, selected for the bark character. Bright red and red-orange stems set this one apart for winter interest. Gaining in popularity with the trade as another option vs. Acer palmatum 'Sango Kaku'.
Foliage and Fruit	New growth a combination of light green & amber-orange. Takes full sun but well suited for shade and the Pacific Northwest conditions. Fall color can be typical scarlet red but more often we see red-orange or yellow-orange, depending on conditions.
